

From: DON CAMPBELL
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/8/02 8:54am
Subject: MICROSOFT

Can you imagine the price of computer software had Microsoft not had the innovative touch. Did they have a monopoly, probably yes, only after they provided the innovativeness to succeed in product development.

They cannot be nearly as bad as big oil after all their mergers. U.S. broke this up once, do they have to again.

Hit Microsoft with a reasonable penalty, get the states' dollar hungry lawyers of their backs and let them do business in a revised way.

DON CAMPBELL